

Workshop For Worldwide Students Empowerment

The notable entrepreneur, Ritesh Watts is again in buzz due to his participation in the global event which was held on 12th November, in Chandigarh, India. The event was for educational agents around the world in the form of the Annual Summit. Moreover, this was India's largest Event on international education and recruitment which also had support from several governments and reputed regulatory bodies. Agents and consultants from various countries participated in this event including Ritesh Watts who is the only ICCRC Member.

The event was backed with a comprehensive idea on student development, which is considered to be vital for the future growth of both individuals and society. During this event, he gave an overview of the present needs of the educational industry. According to him, counselors are more focused on visas and processing, not on helping students to find the right career for them. The job of counselors is to deliver the right piece of career information to the students and help them build a bright future. Moreover, he believes that by guiding counselors, he is guiding thousands of students indirectly.

This event was majorly beneficial for both students and institutions. With this guidance, students will get to know clear career pathways. Everything will be decided for them in terms of further education and job roles. And when students benefit from the counselor's services, it is going to benefit the institutions when they will take admissions. This is how the event served the main purpose of providing the right platform.

Moreover, in a country like India, counselors use traditional approaches to store information of students like excel sheets, word documents, etc. Ritesh Watts acquainted the counselors with the available technological options which can optimize their work effectively. His primary role was to train the counselors on how they can deliver information to the target audience i.e. students through the latest Artificial Integrated tools. In the long run, it will give a huge economic boost to the country through the entrepreneurial activities of counselors.
